This is Eastern ...

Some two thousand of us go to school here. We come for different reasons; no two of us learn exactly the same things. We work a lot because we have ideas that puzzle us and ambitions to fulfill. And we play a lot because we like a good time. Many of us will never come back to this campus but we will remember countless things that happened to us here. All these memories will not be happy ones but that is part of growing. Too, there will be the things forgotten—though at the time they may have been very important. But no matter how we remember Eastern, it has changed each of us. We came and stayed awhile, departed, never quite the same.

The Coaches

Glenn Presnell, farmer All-American halfback and professional grid star, is in his fourth year as head foatball coach of the Eastern Kentucky Maraans. He received his B. S. degree fram Nebroska University in 1938. After several years of coaching at Kansas and Nebroska Universities, and a few years in the Navy, Presnell came to Eastern in 1947 as backfield coach. When Caach Presnell was named head coach here three years ago, he succeeded in taking his first team to an Ohid Valley Conference Championship and a trip to the Tangerine Bawl.

BUDDY MALCOLM WALLIN (77) hails from Lexington where he attended Lafayette High School. Buddy came to Eastern in 1955 and since then has earned three letters as a guard for the Maroons. Buddy plans to coach and teach.

EDWIN JORDON BASS (56) quarterbacked the team in a number of games this year. Eddie came to Eastern in 1956 as a transfer from Mississippi Central Junior College. He was one of the top passers for the Maroons this year completing 11 of 28 passes for 133 yards and two touchdowns. An "A" student, Eddie plans to teach and coach.

KEITH JACKSON RODGERS (82) onother outstanding quarterback for the Maroons, graduated from Holmes High School in Covington. Jack led the team in passing with 10 of 22 passes completed for

BASKETBALL 1957-'58

Before the 1957-'58 basketball season got underway, Coach Paul McBrayer called this squad the most talented group he has had at Eastern in ten years, and though the team lost three more games than it won, disappointing many of its followers, McBrayer still believes what he originally said. What he could not foresee and what most abservers were not aware of, were the unfortunate chain of events-the recurrent illnesses and repeated injuries—which wrecked the chances of this potentially great team to prove itself. Many teams cancelled games throughout the fall and winter because of the nationwide epidemic of Asian flu, and certainly this team would have been justified in doing so, but the Maroons, held together by aspirin and tape and desire and Dr. John Wimberly, made the effort and took their lumps.

Any doubt that this was not the ball team it was predicted to be was dispelled during the latter part of the season when the Maroons began to mend and proceeded to win five of their last seven ball games. Disappointed fans of February 4 forgot their disappointments on February 5 after they witnessed a decisive trouncing of the Louisville Cardinals by a courageous Eastern team that even then had three of their intended-regulars out of the lineup.

The win over Louisville was accomplished with the great performance of Kiser, who, for the first time during the season, was in physical playing condition, and the efforts of Dale Moore, Larry Wood, and Roy Woolum, to single out a few.

The 91-72 victory over Morehead gave further proof to McBrayer's statement that "any time this team was physically able to play it played nothing but good basketball." Jim Kiser again demonstrated what a difference the record might have been had Lady Luck not frowned on him and inflicted him with illness throughout the year. Kiser completely outplayed one of college basketball's better players, Steve Hamilton, by contributing 27 points and 13 rebounds to the cause. Wood and Moore again turned in 20-point performances while Vencill, Bowles, Paulus and Kotula gave brilliant support.

In the last home game of the season, the Maroons turned back a strong Lovola University of New Orleans, a team that had already knocked off enough powers to be invited to the NCAA Tournament. Again it was Kiser with 28 points and 13 rebounds who led the way, and again it was Moore and Wood in the chief supporting

In spite of the obstacles and setbacks that hounded them throughout the season, the Maroons remained undaunted and made comeback after comeback, undismayed.

One of the most highly re-garded and respected coaches in college basketball circles taday is Paul McBrayer, a native of Anderson County and a 1930 All-America guard at the University of Kentucky.

Faced with a general shortage of top-flight material, he gets as much out of his players as any other man in the business. It is a well-known fact that the veteran coach is a moster of the game, a basketball fundamentalist with a genius for developing his players into fundamentally sound teams.

One of the finest compliments poid to him was that from a bitter opponent who said, "Year in and year out, Mac's teams are the best disciplined of any that we meet—they reflect character as well as skill."

Jim Kiser

Larry Wood

Virgil Butler

Dole Moore

Dale Moore, 6-5 forward from Inez, and Larry Wood, 6-3 guard from Brooksville, were named to the All-OVC team by vate of the conference coaches. Wood and Moore led their teammates in scoring for the second straight year, with averages of 16.6 and 15.5 respectively. Moore was the team's leading rebounder and also copped the single-game scoring record for the season with 29 points against North Carolina State.

All-Conference

Captain Jim Kiser, 6-3 forward from Carter, was out of the lineup much of the season because of illness, but later gave a memorable account of himself, particularly in the Marehead game when he led the Maroons to victory Virgil Butler, 6-7 center from Butler, was the Maroon's regular pivotman for the first seven games of the season until a physical disorder kept this fine competitor from further participation.

Jim Baechtold, one of Eastern's great athletes, has returned to his Alma Mater after a five-year career of professional basketball to cooch the freshmen and assist with the varsity. Baechtold, who lettered four years, was All-conference three years, and All-American two years, was drafted by the Baltimore Bullets of the National Basketball Association after graduation in 1952. He was voted "Rookie of the Year" at the end of the season and when Baltimore discontinued its franchise in the NBA, Baechtold was purchased by the New York Knickerbockers where he had four successful seasons before he decided to go into coaching. In his first coaching year here, Jim guided his freshmen to a record of 9 wins against one loss.
